History of the Class of '18.

The year of 1914 began the memorable career of the Class of '18 in P. H. S. with Evelyn Stone at the helm. The many remarks of the upper classmen concerning us "poor freshies" were ineffective, as were the various attempts at initiation. Our debating team composed of Evelyn Stone, Francis Ballou, and Hobart Bard made a brave attempt to defeat the invulnerable Sophomore team, and altho defeated by a two to one decision, it was evident that The Class of '18 had a very brilliant future before it. The class colors, purple and gold, were chosen early in the year.

Ned Munger was elected President in the Sophomore year and he proved to be a very successful leader. The debating team of this year consisted of Esther Cole, Harold Hurd, and Hobart Bard. The class of '18 is noted for its excellent debaters, among whom we include George Rice, Howard Truesdell, Edwin Pailthorp, and Omar Wilson, all members of the High School debating team and the Forensic Club. Four interscholastic debaters is a record of which our class is very proud.

The class has many prominent athletes among its forty-nine members. There are Robert Mudgett, captain of the record making basket ball team of 1918, and also Hobart Bard, and Abraham Jaffe, important members of this organization. Football men we have also, such as Robert Reed, Clifford Fairbairn, Wellington Hoffer, Edwin Pailthorp, Howard Truesdell, Gerald Curley, and others. The class also contains monogram track and baseball men, altho those sports have been on the shelf for several years.

The majority of the active officers and members of the Clisophic Society and the Student House are members of the Class of '18.

During the last two years Howard Truesdell has been the president of the class. He has been assisted by the class officers, Vera Ruggles, Betty Candler, and Hobart Bard.

We have shown our patriotism by breaking the old precedent of an elaborate Junior-Senior banquet. In its place we introduced an economical entertainment in the form of a reception. The Class of '18 has also decided to donate our funds realized from our play "The Man on the Box" to the Red Cross. In every way we have tried to cut down unnecessary expenses and to be consistent with the war policy of the U. S.

Our class benefit play "The Man on the Box" was one of the most successful plays ever produced on the P. H. S. stage. This was due to the ability of the actors, the splendid support of the class, and the excellent coaching given by Miss Skoog and Miss Tousley.

It is with many backward glances and pleasant thoughts that we are departing from good old P. H. S. into our unknown future. But even tho we will no longer be members of the High School we shall always cherish the same feeling of loyalty and interest in its progress, and we hope for the best success in all its various activities.

On account of the continued rainy weather, the Pick Ups will be discontinued next month.

Laugh and the world laughs with you, cry and maybe she will cheer you up. (Lights off, quick.)

Notice—You Four Minute Men.

When you talk about thrift, why don't you give concrete examples? For instance, take a dog—he runs after his tail until he makes both ends meet. And yet a bigger example is a bear, which makes one coat last him a lifetime. (Curtain.)

Mr. Kelder has a new Ford and a bandaged up right hand. We hate to draw conclusions, but would advise a self-starter as a panacea for all ills.

Say, didn't Caesar have lots of Gaul! (Somebody pound on ivory, quick.)

Sofia F.—Think of the great number of men that will be made unhappy when I marry!

Edith—Why, how many men are you going to marry?

Hoffer—Nope, that doesn't appeal to a gentleman.

D. Mills—It does to me, though.

It is reported from reliable authority that as the summer vacation draws near, Grace Jessop has kindly taken it upon herself to bring ginger snaps to school to furnish nourishment for the weakening Freshmen.

Even if a guy is a fish, he can't live on angleworms. Nicht war?

All the allies are looking forward to the day when Wilhelm will recognize Wilson's as his master's voice.

It's all right to save food by conserving corn if we don't dine too often with the chickens.

Miss Smith (in geometry)—Can anyone tell me what is the matter with this construction?

Degnan—The big circle is upside down.

Miss Asbury—Where's your book, George? Lost? What's the matter anyway, about a half dozen Freshmen lost their books this morning.

Debating

Petoskey High School has a debating record of which any school might be proud. For ten years we have taken part in interscholastic debate work and every year have won from one to three debates. When we consider that in all this time we have lost but three debates, we can easily see why it is that Petoskey High School has such a commendable reputation both at home and abroad.

For two years Petoskey High School has been a member of the Triangular Debating League, composed of Traverse City, Cadillac, and Petoskey. Last year we won both debates, one against Traverse City and one against Cadillac, by unanimous decisions. This year, however, we had to be contented with one decision. We easily defeated Cadillac here, our team being composed of George Rice, Jr., Garnet Williams, and A. T. Washburn, Jr. Our team, composed of Howard Truesdell, Edwin Pailthorp, and Omar Wilson, was defeated at Traverse City, however by a two to one decision. But even with these facts in view, Petoskey High School has the record of winning at least one debate a year.

Four of this year's debaters will graduate this year, but prospects are good for new material next year. Everyone is looking forward to many more successful debates and it is up to the boys of the high school to come out next year and make debating a success..

Forensic Club

The Forensic Club of P. H. S. held its final meeting for the school year on the evening of May 28, at which time Edwin Pailthorp, Omar Wilson, A. T. Washburn, Jr., and Garnet Williams were put thru a stiff initiation ceremony. The Forensic Club was organized in 1915, for the purpose of boosting debating as a high school activity, and to combine the efforts of all the debaters in making possible future victories. Its active membership this year consists of George Rice, Jr., Howard Truesdell, Edwin Pailthorp, Omar Wilson, Garnet Williams, and A. T. Washburn, Jr. The entire Alumni membership of the club represents former P. H. S. debaters, and nearly all of them are attending some higher institution of learning. Debating has been one of the most successful of P. H. S. activities and the club was played an important part in its success.

Students who are looking forward to trying out for debating next year may feel that they will not only be members of the debating teams, but also members of the P. H. S. Forensic Club, a club which is represented by some of the most prominent Alumni of Petoskey in the various institutes of higher learning. Students who will try out and make the debating team next year and thus become members of the Forensic Club, will prepare themselves for debaters, orators, public speakers and statesmen, and at the same time insure for Petoskey High School her share of public honors in the future.

Student House

The past year, from the standpoint of the amount of real good obtained by the individual members, has been one of the most successful years in the history of the Student House. The membership was not large; nevertheless the members all obtained more individual good than in previous years.

At the first of the year three parties were organized—the Republican, Progressive, and Democrat. Omar Wilson, George Rice, Jr., and Donald Mills were the leaders of the three parties respectively. The enrollment in the Republican and Progressive parties was about the same, but with the aid of a few skillful diplomats, the Democrats combined with the Republicans with the result that the two parties combined passed their desired legislation over the opposition of the Progressives.

Mr. Auble was elected speaker and Elmer Abbey clerk at the first meeting. Mr. Auble presided until he was drafted later in the year. Very luckily Mr. Lantz came to our assistance. He was of great assistance in making for the betterment of the House, especially in influencing the younger members to prepare a higher grade of work.

The annual banquet was held at the close of the session, in the domestic science rooms. It was successful in every way, and the members of the House wish to thank Miss Jahn and the girls who assisted her in the preparation of the banquet.

A large majority of the older members of the House will be leaving school this year, and it is our sincere wish that those who do remain will bend every effort toward making the Student House of next year one of which the school as a whole can be proud.

CLASS SONG AND POEM

Song.

Our high school life is over,
The parting hour is near,
Our friends are gathered round us,
The old friends true and dear.
And as we greet our comrades,
We smile also we'd sigh,
For we find our thoughts returning,
To old days now gone by.

We've journeyed on together,
Our faces toward the light,
The future beckons onward,
With smile and promise bright.
And still we journey upward,
To broader, clearer view,
Our eyes turned toward the mountain,
Our heart-beats brave and true.

So our high school days are over,
We've watched them gliding past,
The sad ones and the glad ones,
Till now we've reached the last.
And as we greet our comrades,
Still smiling tho' we'd sigh,
For the future we are waiting,
To our high school days, good bye.

L. L., '18.

Poem.

We are near the end of a journey, that looked long to us at the start,
With vict'ries, defeats, tears, and laughter, each in their place on the chart,
And we'll not forget the vict'ries, the defeats we will smile at and own,
As the hours of our journey are numbered, and we're counting them one by one.

Then here's to the teachers of P. H. S., who have guided us on our way,
And raised aloft the standard that we've followed day by day.
They have given us high ideals, and courage to still press on.
Tho' the hours of our journey are numbered and we're counting
them one by one.

We're leaving far behind us, the port we started from,
A sigh for days we've left behind, a smile for days to come.
And we each shall still follow our star, and climb to the height alone,
When the hours of our journey are numbered, and we've counted
them one by one.

L. L., '18.

THE OBSERVER

Published monthly during the school year, by the students of Petoskey High School, Petoskey, Michigan.

Entered as second class matter December 28, 1914, at the postoffice in Petoskey, under act of March 3, 1879.

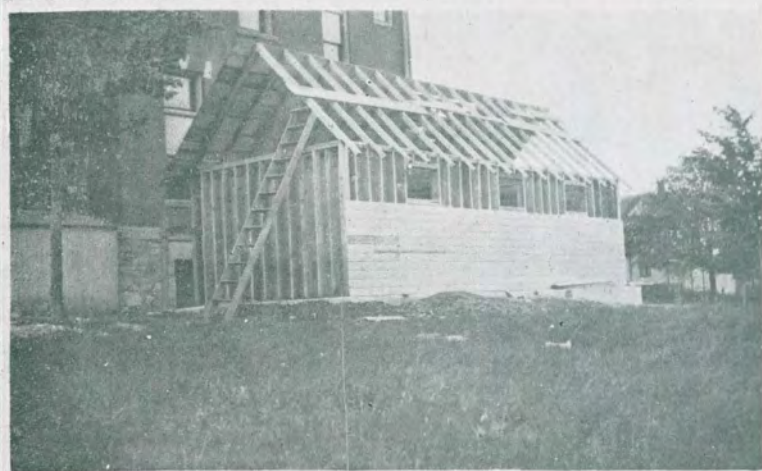

To edit the Observer means a great deal of extra work for every one concerned. The Observer is a paper published monthly by the students of Petoskey High School, but the bulk of the work must necessarily fall upon the staff, for there is involved the careful manipulation of all funds and material. There is always a great deal of time and worry spent upon any school paper to make it a success. This is exceptionally true of the Observer this year, because of the high prices confronting the staff. The editor alone can not attend to everything, he must depend on the support of a willing and efficient staff to a great extent. Therefore I wish to thank the staff, both for the school and myself for the willing and helpful support during the past year.

In behalf of the Observer we wish to take this opportunity to thank the student body and members of the faculty for their whole-hearted support of the Observer during the past year. This support is essential to our magazine and there can be no objection because of lack of support this year. Altho a large portion of the staff will be leaving in June of this year, we will still have an INTEREST IN THE PAPER AND WILL HELP SUPPORT IT BY SUBSCRIBING FOR IT. We extend our best wishes to next year's Editor and Staff and hope they will continue to have the full support of the school.

POEMS

"Where They All Begin"

When she was but a little mite,
Not over three or four,
Upon her little frock so white
A "Darling" pin she wore.
And later on, in college days,
It was her pride to win,
By smiling eyes and pleasant ways,
Some frat boy's precious pin.
When she became a reigning belle,
There glistened from her ruche
A pin whose worth I may not tell—
A diamond brooch.
Altho in every style of pin
By this time she is versed,
She started where they all begin—
She wore a Safety First.

Camouflage

Little dabs of powder—
Little dabs of paint—
Make the pretty ladies
Seem like what they ain't.

And in the parlor there were three,
The maid, the parlor lamp, and he,
Two were company without a doubt,
And so the little lamp went out.

JOKES

They were discussing about how to get down off an elephant.

First—You climb down.

No.

Second—You grease its sides and slide down.

No.

Third—You take the trunk line down.

No. You don't get down off an elephant, you get it off a goose.

The Hand to Hold.

(Dedicated to Hob Bard.)

If I might hold that hand again,
Clasped lovingly in mine,
I'd little care what others thought—
That hand I held lang syne!
That hand! So warm it was and soft!
Soft! Ne'er was a softer thing!
Ah, me! I'll hold it ne'er again—
Ace, ten, knave, queen and king.
